KATHY CHILDERS

About the Artist

Kathy Childers is a mixed media artist who began scrapbooking and making cards using stamps years ago after being introduced to a printmaking class at Yuba College. She began journaling in a notebook using a black marker and then added collage to the top. She uses traditional media like paint and ink and then incorporates found objects to her work. Her “palette” includes buttons, napkins, lace, clothing tags, and even broken jewelry. While the words she journals are the initial impetus, the writing is deeply personal and sometimes hides in the finished work.

Kathy's most recent work has been heavily influenced by a need to preserve and connect with memories and mementos. She creates custom collages from trinkets and treasures saved from a special event to forever commemorate an occasion. She has used napkins, gift wrap, table decor, and small items from specific events to decorate and customize a one-of-a-kind collaged artwork made to order by each client. Kathy has even incorporated personalized messages or photographs into her works for an even more personalized touch. These collages are perfect gifts, customizable party decor, a meaningful keepsake, and a unique way to honor and commemorate milestones like graduations, retirement parties, birthdays, anniversaries, or any special day.

To get your custom collage or custom collaged cake for your celebration, connect with Kathy Childers directly, and come see her, and her current work at the Art Box Marketplace Gallery at the Sutter Theater.
